FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Wind warning

Environment Canada has issued a winter storm Wind Warning for Southwestern Ontario and the City is asking residents to be prepared for the conditions and take care driving.

The storm is expected to reach London early in the morning hours of Wednesday, and continue throughout most of the day. These strong winds will bring with them significantly lower temperatures, blowing snow and the possibility of a flash freeze. They could also potentially result in downed tree limbs and power lines.

City crews are on standby and will be out in full force to keep the streets safe. Motorists are advised to exercise caution when driving as conditions may change quickly in the early morning. Updates will be provided as necessary.

Be alert and stay safe.
